GENERAL ELECTIONS 1991, 1996 & 2001 REPORT

OFFICE OF
THE CHIEF ELECTORAL OFFICER
SAMOA

FOREWORD

It is necessary for me to point out at the outset that the Registrar of Electors and Voters and Chief Electoral Officer is not required by the Electoral Act 1963 to report to any authority on the Conduct of Elections.

All questions as to compliance with the exercise of powers and duties conferred by the Act are presented to the Court for the Decisions of the Court.

All election petitions are presented to the Court. The Court after making a determination certifies in writing the determination to the Speaker and may make a special report to the Speaker on any matters arising in the course of the trial which in the judgement of the Court, ought to be submitted to the Legislative Assembly.

This report is therefore presented for the explicit purpose of providing written information, tables of statistics pertaining to Samoa Parliamentary elections conducted since adoption of Universal Suffrage in the year 1990 and recommendations for planning and relevant legislations necessary to upkeep a democratic electoral process of international standards for Samoa.

The Speaker of the Legislative Assembly approached me late on October 1988 that he intended to nominate me as Clerk of the Legislative Assembly. I expressed my reluctance as I had just begun a 2 year leave without pay from my appointment as Specialist Obstetrician Gynecologist in the Government Health Services to take a much needed break. He did not accept my apology and nominated me to office.

Thus I was appointed Clerk of the Legislative Assembly on November 1988, on the understanding that I was to return to the Health Services at the completion of the 2 years leave period previously approved.

On July 1990 Cabinet directed that the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly be appointed Registrar of Electors and Chief Returning Officer to administer the 1990 Plebiscite and all future Parliamentary elections.

Thus the responsibilities of registering voters, compiling the rolls and conducting the polls for the 1990 Plebiscite, was added to my responsibilities as Clerk of the Legislative Assembly. The Office of the Clerk was transformed to be the Plebiscite Office concurrently with parliamentary responsibilities.

After the Plebiscite, the Prime Minister informed me that he intended to recommend an amendment to the Electoral Act to permit the Public Service Commission to appoint the same person to hold office both as Chief Returning Officer and Registrar of Electors and Voters, and I was to be that person. The Office of the Chief Returning Officer had been by practice held by previous Clerks while that of the Registrar of Electors and Voters had been held by an appointee from the Public Service.

I again expressed much reluctance as I had realised that registrations and compiling rolls for the Plebiscite and conducting the polls had required a lot of hard work and had taken much of my time which would have been expended on my responsibilities as Clerk of the Legislative Assembly. Accepting the two proposed offices would mean continuing with the added heavy workload. I had to reluctantly accept when the Prime Minister threw me the challenge asking, "O Iona uiga e te le mafaia?".

Given to myself, I would have preferred to concentrate on Parliamentary work. Instead I had to accept the responsibilities of the 2 added offices and made submissions for increasing of overtime entitlements for staff of the Legislative Department, in the effort to bring the Official Report of the Proceedings and Journals of the Legislative Assembly up to date.

Following my acceptance of the appointment to the Offices of Registrar of Electors and Voters and Chief Electoral Officer, an Electoral Section employing 5 staff was set up within the Department of the Legislative Assembly. All staff of the Office of the Clerk became Electoral Officers and parliamentary work was once again put on hold. Once the official results of the 1991 general elections were declared, quick reversal of roles back to Legislative Officers was necessary for preparation for calling of Parliament and for the First Meeting of Parliament.

The procedures for duties and responsibilities set up for the 1991 general elections, except for minor changes required to provide for amendments in the Electoral Act were instituted for preparation and conduct of the 1996 general elections.

Following the 1996 general elections, I entreated with the Prime Minister to appoint someone else to the Office of the Registrar of Electors and Voters and Chief Returning Officer for health reasons, as I was due for an operation in New Zealand.

Thus my appointment to Registrar of Electors and Voters and Chief Returning Officer was revoked on $13^{\text {th }}$ August 1996. The revocation only lasted just under 2 years when I was again reappointed to the 2 offices on $10^{\text {th }}$ July 1998 when the Clerk Assistant who had held the offices was transferred to the public service.

On August 2000, the Clerk Assistant was appointed Registrar of Electors and Voters and the Office of the Registrar of Electors and Voters was transferred to the Ministry of Justice. This was taken as response of the Government of the Day to complaints voiced against having one person holding 3 offices - Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, Registrar of Electors and Voters and Chief Electoral Officer seeing such appointment as "ua tele le paoa ua tuuina i le tagata e toatasi"

The move however though welcomed by many including myself brought its own problems as will be highlighted in the report.

Thus my appointment as Registrar of Electors and Voters was again revoked, while continuing with the Office of the Clerk and the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer to date.

And now a word about the Report. The Report highlights the amendments to the Electoral Act which provides for the Electoral Reforms enacted in 1990 for Universal Suffrage and subsequent amendments. The mechanics of elections are explained together with statistics for the 1991, and 1996 and 2001 General Elections. Manuals for Candidates, Scrutineers, Registration of Political Parties and Radio Talks are annexed for information on public and voter education published and made available to the public since the adoption of Universal Suffrage in 1990. Compendium of Election Laws published in the year 1995 and the year 2000 and Manuals for Polling Officials 2001 are also annexed for further elaboration on the Samoa Electoral Process.

Amendments to the Electoral Act which I had recommended and included in the various amendments since 1990 were purely administrative, and have shown to have improved administration of the electoral process.

Successful culmination of the electoral process since my taking up of office is largely attributed to hard work of the staff of the Legislative Assembly. Despite their heavy workload they stood up to pressure from the public and politicians, and exemplify professionalism under extraordinary conditions. For this I am deeply indebted to the staff of the Legislative Assembly.

I express gratitude to Hon. Aeau Peniamina, Hon. Afamasaga Fatu Vaili and Hon. Toleafoa Faafisi for support and for having allowed the staff of the Legislative Assembly to assist in the administration and conduct of electoral activities during their terms of offices as Speakers of the Legislative Assembly.

I express gratitude to Hon. Tuilaepa Sailele, Responsible Minister (5/11/1998 18/3/2001) pursuant to the Electoral Act, for his trust and support enabling conduction of the 2001 General Elections in accordance with international standards as was exercised in the Conduct of the 1991 and 1996 General Elections.

Finally, I express my sincere thanks and gratitude to the late Hon. Tofilau Eti Alesana, Responsible Minister (April 1988-23/11/98) pursuant to the Electoral Act, for his trust in me and the challenge with the added appointments of Registrar of Electors and Voters and Chief Electoral Officer, and for NEVER interfering with my work NOR attempt to influence any of the Decisions which I had made in exercise of the powers and performance of duties pursuant to the Electoral Act since I took up his challenge in 1990.

Mase Dr Fetuao Toia Alama

CHIEF ELECTORAL OFFICER

CHAPTER II

LEGAL FRAMEWORK FOR ELECTIONS

1. The Constitution of the Independent State of Samoa:

Article 44 - Members of the Legislative Assembly-(1) The Legislative Assembly shall consist of:
(a) One member elected for each of 41 territorial constituencies having such names and boundaries and including such villages or sub-villages or villages and sub-villages as are prescribed from time to time by Act:
(aa) Six additional members being one additional member elected for each of such 6 of those territorial constituencies as are prescribed from time to time by Act.
(b) Members elected by those persons whose names appear on the individual voters' roll.
(2) The number of members to be elected under the provisions of subclause (b) of clause (1) shall be determined under the provisions of the Second Schedule.
(3) Subject to the provisions of this Constitution, the mode of electing members of the Legislative Assembly, the terms and conditions of their membership, the qualifications of electors, and the manner in which the roll for each territorial constituency and the individual voters roll shall be established and kept shall be prescribed by law.
(4) Members of the Legislative Assembly shall be known as Members of Parliament.

Article 63 of the Constitution - Prorogation and dissolution of Legislative Assembly - (1) The Head of State may at any time, by notice published in the Samoa Gazette, prorogue the Legislative Assembly.
(2) If, at any time, the office of Prime Minister is vacant, the Head of State shall, by notice published in the Samoa Gazette, dissolve the Legislative Assembly as soon as he is satisfied, acting in his discretion, that a reasonable period has elapsed since that office was last vacated and that there is no Member of Parliament likely to command the confidence of a majority of the Members.
(3) The Head of State may at any time, by notice published in the Samoa Gazette, dissolve the Legislative Assembly, if he is advised by the Prime Minister to do so, but shall not be obliged to act in this respect in accordance with the advice of the Prime Minister unless he is satisfied, acting in his discretion, that, in tendering that advice, the Prime Minister commands the confidence of a majority of the Members of Parliament.
(4) The Head of State shall dissolve the Legislative Assembly at the expiry of five years from the date of the last preceding general election, if it has not been sooner dissolved.

Article 64 of the Constitution - General Elections:- There shall be a general election of the Legislative Assembly at such time within three months after every dissolution of the Assembly as the Head of State appoints by notice in the Samoa Gazette.

2. The Electoral Act 1963

3. The Territorial Constituency Act 1963

Qualification of Members

The Electoral Act provides that any person who is registered as an elector of any constituency is the holder of a Certificate of Identity and is a holder of a Matai title is qualified to be elected a Member of Parliament for that constituency and a person registered as a voter in the individual voters roll is qualified to be elected a Member of Parliament to represent the Individual Voters.

The Electoral Act further provides for disqualification if a person:

1. loses any qualification required to enable him to be registered as an elector or voter; or
2. has not resided in Samoa for a period equaling or exceeding 3 years; or
3. is an undischarged bankrupt; or
4. has been convicted in Samoa or American Samoa of an offence punishable by death or by imprisonment for a term of 2 years of upwards; or has been convicted in Samoa of a corrupt practice within the preceding 4 years;
5. is of unsound mind and is subject to an order of medical custody.

Persons exempted from the 3 years residency requirement are:

1. persons appointed under Foreign Affairs Act and their spouses; and
2. persons appointed to a post in an international organisation and the Samoa government nomination or sponsorship; or
3. persons who are required to be outside of Samoa for medical treatment; and
4. holders of Government position, post or office or a member or official of a representative body or an organisation based in Samoa who are required to be overseas for the conduct of official duties.

Number of Members to be elected

The number of Members of the Legislative Assembly to represent the Territorial Constituencies is prescribed in Article 44 (1) (a) and (aa) as last amended by the Constitution Amendment Act (No.3) 1991.

The number of Members of the Legislative Assembly to represent the individual voters it determined by the Registrar of Electors and Voters who shall be appointed Electoral Commissioner by Le Ao o le Malo to carry out the determination at intervals of not less than 5 years and not more than 6 years as prescribed in the Second Schedule of the Constitution.
The last determination as declared in 1995 is reproduced below:-

REPORT OF THE ELECTORAL COMMISSIONER TO THE HEAD OF STATE ON DETERMINATION OF MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT TO BE ELECTED BY PERSONS WHOSE NAMES APPEAR ON THE INDIVIDUAL VOTERS ROLL

3. Determination:

(a) Number of persons whose names appear on the Individual Voters roll as at 31 December $1995=1,705$
(b) Number of persons deemed to be represented by Members of Parliament to be elected by persons whose names appear on the individual voters roll calculated by multiplying the number of persons on the individual voters roll by 3 : thus : 1,705 $\times 3=5,115$
(c) (i) Official Population of Western Samoa as at 31 December $1995=$ 161,298
(ii) Non citizen of Western Samoa $=3,177$
(d) Number of persons deemed to be represented by one Member of Parliament elected by Territorial Constituencies calculated by subtracting from the official population the total number of non citizens and the number of persons deemed to be represented by Members elected by individual voters, and dividing the result by 47.
$161,298-(3,177+5,115) \div 47=3,255$
(e) Using above ratio of 1:3255, or one (1) Member of Parliament representing 3,255 territorial constituents, the number of Members of Parliament to be elected by persons on the individual voters roll is calculated by dividing 5,115 by 3,255 :
thus: $5,115 \div 3,255=1.571$
(f) In making this determination Article 4 provides that the Electoral Commissioner shall regard as one any fraction thereof, therefore 1.571 is hereby regarded as 2 .
4. In accordance with this provisions of the Second Schedule of the Constitution of the Independent Sate of Western Samoa therefore, I hereby determine that the number of Members of Parliament to be elected by persons whose names appear on the individual voters roll shall be two (2).

DATED at Apia this 15th day of January 1996.

MASE TOIA
Electoral Commissioner

PLEBISCITE 1990 ACT

In 1990, an electoral system where only Samoans who hold matai titles and Samoan citizens of foreign extraction were permitted to vote finally came to end when the people voted "yes" to universal suffrage in the 1990 Plebiscite in which the following questions were put to the vote.

1. "Do you agree that every citizen of Western Samoa who has attained the age of 21 years is entitled to be registered to vote at any General Election or By Election?
2. "Do you agree that there should be a second Assembly for Parliament to be called the Maota o le Aganuu comprising members from each of the eleven (11) traditional divisions of Western Samoa, such members to be elected in accordance with customs and tradition?.

Fifty four thousand and two ( 54,002 ) or $83 \%$ of the estimated 65,000 adult population (ages 21 and over) registered for the plebiscite.

Of the 54,002 registered, 40,011 representing 74\% of the registered voters voted at the Plebiscite.

Results:

Question 1.

| Yes | - | $50.3 \%$ |
| :--- | :--- | ---: |
| No | - | $45.3 \%$ |
| Informal | - | $4.6 \%$ |

Question 2.

| Yes | - | $35.9 \%$ |
| :--- | :--- | :---: |
| No | - | $55.8 \%$ |
| Informal | - | $\mathbf{8 \%}$ |

AMENDMENTS TO THE ELECTORAL ACT 1963

1990 Amendments

- The Constitution Amendment Act (No.3) 1991 provides for increase of the Parliamentary Term from 3 years to 5 years.

CHAPTER III

THE ELECTORAL ROLLS  AND  CERTIFICATES OF IDENTITY

The Existing Electoral Rolls

The existing Electoral Rolls which were computerised from the start were first compiled for the 1991 General Elections, the first elections under universal suffrage. These Rolls have been maintained in pursuance to Section 17 of the Electoral Act 1963 and are temporarily closed only during election periods.

The basis of the Electoral Rolls compiled for the 1991 General Elections were the Matai Rolls and the Individual Voters Roll as at $27^{\text {th }}$ November 1990 as well as the Rolls prepared for the purpose of the Plebiscite Act 1990 pursuant to Section 18 of the Electoral Act 1963 as amended by Section 7 of the Electoral Amendment Act 1990.

Correction/Amendments to the Rolls

The Electoral Act provides for the Registrar to remove from the rolls the names of persons:
(i) whose deaths are notified in writing.
(ii) who request in writing the removal of their names.
(iii) who were not qualified to be in the rolls.
(iv) whose names are entered on the Corrupt Practice List.
(v) who fail to respond to the Revision of Rolls except those persons whom the Registrar is satisfied are alive and hold valid certificates of identity.

The Electoral Act also provides for the Registrar to restore to the rolls the names of any persons that have been omitted through misinformation or errors.

Amendments to the rolls are required to provide for transfer of electors between constituencies and between the Constituency Roll and the Individual Voters Roll as the electors and voters may choose once between General Elections.

In making amendments to the rolls the Registrar may not remove or enter any names to the rolls during the period when the rolls are temporarily closed.

Qualifications of Electors and Voters

According to the Electoral Act 1963, a person is qualified to be enrolled as an elector or voter if -
(a) he is a citizen of Samoa;
(b) he is 21 years or over;
(c) he is not detained in a hospital or prison or other place under the Mental Health Ordinance 1961;
(d) he is not detained in a prison pursuant to a conviction;
(e) his name does not appear on the Corrupt Practice List.

The rolls for Constituencies and for the Individual voters are printed in two different formats, the single spaced blue covered rolls and the double spaced yellow covered rolls. The single spaced rolls are supplied to the "pulenuu" and "sui o le malo" and are also made available to the public.

The double spaced rolls with distinct yellow covers are the Official Rolls for the Elections. These are used for voting at the polling booths and for scrutiny of the rolls during the official count. It is an offence to give out any information in regards to any names or numbers on the Official Rolls.

Certificates of Identity

Certificates of identity were first required under the Electoral Amendment Act 1990 to be issued to all registered electors or voters. These certificates containing photographs of persons identified and other personal details were to be issued free of charge with subsequent replacements for lost ones at a reasonable cost. All certificates of identity to be valid for 10 years and no new certificates to be issued while the rolls are closed. The certificates of identity were to provide identification at the polling booths - no elector or voter was to be permitted to vote without producing a valid certificate of identity.

Registration and issuance of certificates of identity for the 1991 general elections commenced on December 1990 and ended on $16^{\text {th }}$ day of March 1991, the date on which the rolls were temporarily closed.

Registration stations were set up in each Constituency for registration and issuance of certificates of identity. Two Registration stations were also set up in New Zealand; one in the Samoa Consular General Office in Auckland and the other in the Samoa High Commissioner's Office in Wellington.

This was a mammoth undertaking given the scope of the work and the limited time permitted. Staff were trained in set Procedures to assist in detecting attempts at fraudulent registrations and to ensure that the provisions of the Electoral Act and relevant legislations were complied with in order to achieve an accurate Electoral Roll. Cameras for taking photos required for the certificates of identity were obtained through New Zealand Aid. Staff were trained in the use of cameras and laminator machines from manuals provided with the equipments at no extra cost. The Samoa Consular General Office in Auckland and the Samoa High Commissioner's Office in Wellington were each provided with camera and laminator for processing of the certificates of identity issued from their those offices.

During the process a significant number of claims for constituencies of registration were found to be false and were rejected. It was also noted that a small number of registered matais who had actually voted in previous elections were not Samoan citizens and therefore not qualified to be registered neither as matais nor as voters. Birth certificates were also found to have been used for false identification, both at registration and for passports purposes.

A total of 58,874 registered electors and voters were issued certificates of identity for the 1991 General Elections. Since the Electoral Act at the time permitted changes of choice of constituency of registration at any time, many of the electors and voters revoked their choices and were re-issued with certificates of identity for different constituencies before the rolls were closed.

Registration of new electors and voters including the issuance of certificates of identity have since been effected through the Main Office of the Registrar in Apia and Salelologa in Savaii and in specific constituencies where updating of the rolls and issuance of certificates of identity were required for bi-elections. A total of 19,280 new certificates of identity (other than replacements) were issued between the 1991 and 1996 general elections.

In determining that all the 58,874 certificates which were issued for the 1991 general elections would expire just before the expiry of the $\mathrm{XII}^{\text {th }}$ Legislative Assembly, the Electoral Act was amended to increase the validity of the certificates of identity from 10 to 11 years (Electoral Amendment Act (No.2) 2002). This would permit the certificates issued on December 1990 and early 1991 to be used for the 2001 general elections.

Annual Revision of Rolls

Annual revision of rolls was first legislated for in the Electoral Amendment Act 1995 providing for the removal from the rolls, the names of those who have died, those who have ceased to render tautua and those who have moved away from original constituencies of registration thus purging the rolls of the names of those electors and voters who no longer qualify for the original constituencies of registration. The procedures provided for the revision of rolls require the Registrar to send to every registered elector or voter Forms completed with individual personal details. The Forms are to be corrected where necessary and to be returned to the Registrar by the close of the revision period. The names of those who fail to return the forms will be removed by the Registrar.

The first revision of rolls was carried out in 1995 in preparation for the 1996 General Elections. The forms were delivered by Teams visiting all houses in each village including houses in the plantations in Samoa while the forms for electors and voters residing in New Zealand were sent to the Samoa Consular General Office in Auckland, and the Samoa High Commissioner's Office in Wellington.

A number of registered electors were not reached because of difficulties inherent in the registration system.

The main difficulties were:
(1) many electors who qualify through matai heritage or through rendering of tautua reside outside of constituencies of registration and are often not known to those who reside within the constituencies. This being the case, no point of contact could be established for such electors.
(2) there is high mobility recorded for people who qualify under "tautua".
(3) as common in Samoa one person maybe known under a variety of christians and surnames and are therefore difficult to identify.
(4) Many electors and voters residing outside of Samoa were not reached.

This led to the government introducing and passing the Electoral Amendment Act 1996 which came into force on $1^{\text {st }}$ February 1996 providing for the Registrar to retain in the rolls the names of persons who the Registrar is satisfied are alive and according to the records are holders of valid certificates of identity.

This effectively prevented the Registrar from removing the names of those electors and voters who did not respond to the revision of the rolls.

The second revision of the Rolls was conducted in 2000 in preparation for the 2001 General Elections. The revision for Upolu Constituencies was undertaken by my Office while that of the Savaii Constituencies was continued by the Office of the newly appointed Registrar of Electors and Voters under the Department of Justice.

Rolls for the 2001 General Election

The rolls were closed by Notice of the Chief Electoral Officer reproduced below:

TEMPORARY CLOSING OF ELECTORAL ROLLS

In compliance with the provisions of Section 34 of the Electoral Act 1963, notice is hereby given that the Electoral Rolls for all Territorial Constituencies of Samoa and for the Individual Voters will be temporarily closed from, $20^{\text {th }}$ January 2001 until after the upcoming General Elections.

Pursuant to Section 25D of the Electoral Act 1963 the Registrar shall not at any time while the rolls are temporarily closed, register any new application or transfer application that the Registrar receives after 4.00pm on Friday, $19^{\text {th }}$ January 2001.

GIVEN at Mulinuu this Wednesday, $3^{\text {rd }}$ day of January 2001.

Mase Dr Toia Alama
CHIEF ELECTORAL OFFICER

* Election not contested.

The number of registered electors in constituencies where elections were not contested are noticeably low with marked rise in the years when the elections were contested.
eg: Vaimauga Sasae recorded 710 and 603 for 1991 and 1996 respectively when the elections were not contested but the number rose to 2452 in 2001 when the election was contested. Vaisigano No. 1 also shows the same picture. Faleata Sasae's roll which recorded 1717 and 3228 in 1991 and 1996 respectively dropped to 1643 in 2001 when the election was not contested.

* Election not contested

The 1990 Amendment Act as previously referred to, provides for multiple title holders and electors who are registered through matai heritage the right of claim to changes of choice of constituencies at any time. This provision lead to situations where electors would change choice of constituencies a number of times as long as the rolls were open or for the purposes of enabling of voting for different constituencies during the same Parliamentary Term. This was amended by the 1995 Amendment Act which provides for electors' choice of constituencies to be exercised once between general elections.

The figures show the same pattern of transfers of large numbers of electors out of the constituencies where the elections were not contested, with much small numbers of transfers recorded in those constituencies where elections were contested.

The percentage of transfers for the 1996 general elections was recorded at $6.9 \%$. A significant increase of transfers was recorded at $11.7 \%$ for the 2001 general elections.

A contributing factor to these mass transfers between rolls is the use of the certificates of identity as trading cards by candidates and electors and voters for goods or money in return for votes.

CHAPTER IV

THE POLLING SCHEME

The Clerk of the Legislative Assembly holding also the Office of the Registrar of Electors and Voters and the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer not only utilises the personnel but also facilities of the Office of the Clerk for the purposes of Planning and Conduct of all general elections and bi-elections from December 1990 to date and for the purposes of registration of electors and voters from December 1990 to $28^{\text {th }}$ August 2000.

For the 2001 general elections the Writs reproduced in Chapter I prescribed the following dates:

- Nomination day - $16^{\text {th }}$ day of February 2001,
- Polling day $-2^{\text {nd }}$ day of March 2001, and
- Return of Writs $-18^{\text {th }}$ day of March 2001

Nominations Plan:

1. Nominations to close at noon on the $16^{\text {th }}$ day of February 2001.
2. Acceptance of nominations required:
(i) lodging of nomination and consent of candidate before noon on nomination day;
(ii) the consent of the candidate to state that he is qualified to be elected a member of Parliament in terms of the Electoral Act 1963;
(iii) statement in the nomination paper that the candidate is a registered elector of a specified constituency or individual voter;
(iv) the nomination paper to be signed by at least two registered electors of the constituency for which the nomination is made;
(v) the nomination fee is paid by noon on nomination day.
3. The Chief Electoral Officer to give public notice of nominations in the Gazette, in the Savali, and in a newspaper published in Samoa or by radio broadcast and in each constituency at the close of nominations.
4. Withdrawal of nominations if any to be given public notice at close of nominations.

Nominations of Candidates:

The day for closing of nominations for the 2001 general elections as declared in the Writs given on the $2^{\text {nd }}$ day of February 2001 was 12.00 noon on Friday $16^{\text {th }}$ day of February 2001 being the $14^{\text {th }}$ day from the day of issue and 13 days from the day declared for polling to take place.

Any person qualified to be a candidate for any constituency could be with his consent be nominated by at least any 2 registered electors of that constituency and any persons registered in the Individual Voters roll could be with his consent be nominated by at least 2 registered individual voters.

All nomination forms were inspected for the following:

1. The candidate's consent and declaration that he qualifies to run as a candidate for the general elections under Part II of the Electoral Act 1963;
2. The candidate's declaration that he is a registered elector of a specified constituency or a registered voter;
3. That he has been in Samoa for at least 240 days for each of the previous 3 years, or he is exempted from the 3 years resident requirement and providing evidence of such claim.

The nomination form and consent of candidate together with the nomination fee of SAT300.00 were required to be submitted to the Chief Electoral Officer before noon on nomination day.

The Chief Electoral Officer was required to reject any nomination that did not comply with the requirements set out in the Electoral Act.

Uncontested Elections:

If only one member is to be elected and only one nomination is received or in the case of double member constituencies only 2 nominations are received the Chief Electoral Officer by public notice on or before polling day is required to declare the candidate or candidates deemed elected and report to O le Ao o le Malo.

There was only one uncontested election in the 2001 general elections as compared to 2 in the 1991 general elections and 2 in the 1996 general elections.

Table IV

Table IV shows a marginal difference in the number of Nominations received for the 1991, 1996 and 2001 general elections - the highest was recorded in the 1996 general elections.

Selecting of Polling Booths:

As with previous elections the polling booths used in the immediate previous elections were to be inspected to verify continuing suitability for polling. These were invariably the school buildings, church ministers houses or church halls or women's committee buildings because such buildings are usually:
(i) spacious; and
(ii) have good facilities for polling officers and scrutineers; and
(iii) have big compounds to avoid overcrowding of voters; and
(iv) easily accessible to voters as they are mostly situated in parts of villages where the population is concentrated; and
(v) under the collective protection of the village and therefore assured security for the polls and staff.

Other buildings to be considered for polling booths only when the previous were not easily accessible to the voters.

The polling booths to be acceptable to all candidates. No polling booth to be located in an individual's home or placed in a building owned by a candidate or his relatives or his supporters. Suitable arrangements to be made for accommodations of polling staff and to avoid any obligations to any candidate or political party.

Layout of Polling Booths:

The layout of the polling booths and provision of voting compartments within the polling booths were to be included in the Manual for Polling Officers published by the Chief Electoral Officer and used for training of polling officers and conduct of polls.

The capacity of the polling booths to accommodate 3 voting compartments and a large area for issuance of votes and an area for the candidates' scrutineers to be ensured.

Separate entrances and exits to be marked. Chairs for old people and for the sick to be provided.

Improvised Polling Booths:

Provision for voting outside of the booth for the sick, the very old and those unable to walk were through arrangement of an improvised polling booth. This require the Presiding Officer to take the ballot paper and ballot box to the entrance of the polling booth where the elector/voter can cast his vote.

Special Polling Booths:

The Electoral Act provides that electors may cast special votes outside of their constituencies. The scheme provided for a special table in each polling booth for casting of special votes and one special polling booth for each constituency to be sited in Apia. The special polling booths in Apia were placed mainly in the Malifa Education Compound, Court Houses and Church Halls.

Appointment of Polling Officers:

The Electoral Act 1963 provides for the Polling Officers to be appointed by the Public Service Commission on recommendation of the Chief Electoral Officer pursuant to the Electoral Act. Like previous elections, notices were sent out to government departments and organisations for names of senior officers to be trained and appointed polling officers.

Those appointed in previous elections were scrutinised to check for good performance of duties and good behaviour before final appointments were to be made. Polling officers not to be appointed to constituencies where they are registered.

Categories of Polling Offices:

1. The Returning Officers being the most senior polling officers were selected from heads or deputy heads of government departments/ organisations and from senior staff of the Legislative Assembly;
2. The Presiding Officers were appointed from $3^{\text {rd }}$ level staff of government departments/organisations;
3. The polling clerks were appointed from lower levels staff of government departments/organisations.
4. Police Officers:

Two police officers were appointed to each polling booth; one to act as cue master and the other to be the ballot box guard.

| Total | $\mathbf{7 1 8}$ | $\mathbf{8 9 3}$ | $\mathbf{1 1 2 0}$ |

Responsibilities of Polling Officials:

The Polling officials categories, duties and responsibilities as set out in the Handbook for Polling Officials are as follows:

1. Returning Officers (RO):

Each Territorial Constituency or 2 of the smaller constituencies are run by the appointed Returning Officer. The Returning Officer is responsible to the Chief Electoral Officer for the effective organisation and operation of polling activities within each polling place in the Constituency.

Returning Officers designated by the Chief Electoral Officer for the scrutiny of the rolls and the official count under the provisions of section 79.
2. Deputy Returning Officer (DRO):

The Deputy Returning Officer is accountable to the Returning Officer for the way polling activities are carried out. The work involves the issuing of ordinary and special ballot papers. Other duties include catering for the needs of electors and voters with special needs, eg. Old people, the blind, the deaf and those who can neither read nor write. The Deputy Returning Officer is the Presiding Officer for the polling booth and is responsible for the smooth running of polls and with the help of the Police for observance of Law in the polling booth.
3. Poll Clerk (PC):

The Poll Clerk is accountable to the Deputy Returning Officer for accuracy in the locating and marking of the Certified Booth Roll during the issuing of ordinary votes.
4. Cue Master and Ballot Box Guard:

The two Police Officers allocated to each polling booth are responsible for keeping order in the booths. In addition to keeping order the cue master assists and guides electors/voters ensuring that there are only 6 electors/voters present within the polling booth at any one time while the ballot box guard ensures that the electors/voters deposit the ballot papers in the ballot box before leaving the booth.

The success of the conduct of the polls of any election depends not only on the accuracy of the electoral rolls used for the polls but to a large extent on the polling scheme devised based on legislations, the preparations and practical application of the scheme of conduct of polls, vote counting at the booths, return of ballot papers and materials, the official count and declarations of the official results.

As done prior to the 1991 and the 1996 General Election training of polling officials were undertaken during the period of 2 weeks before polling day. These were based on the "Handbook for Polling Officials" a handbook that was first written for the guide of polling officials for the Plebiscite 1990, the second edition for the General Elections 1991, the third for the General Elections 1996 and the fourth edition for the 2001 General Elections.

Training consisted of detailed courses of instructions for each group in procedures as detailed in the Handbook followed by setting up of "mock" polling booths with the trainees acting as presiding officers, polling clerks, police personnel as security officers and cue masters and ballot box guards, scrutineers, electors/voters, blind or incapacitated electors/voters to understand the duties expected of them.

Special emphasis was placed on the following:
(i) That no voter be permitted to enter a polling booth without producing a valid certificate of identity.
(ii) Identification of voter through his certificate of identity, distinguishing between fake and genuine identity, manner of cutting mark on the certificate of identity to show that the voter has already been issued a ballot paper in this election.
(iii) System of marking the ballot papers by the voters, tendered votes, special votes, spoilt votes etc.
(iv) Conduct of the Preliminary Count.
(v) Statement of ballot papers accounts.
(vi) Communication of Results to the Chief Electoral Officer.
(vii) Security of the ballot boxes.

Elections 2001 Handbook for Polling Officials:

The "Election 2001 Handbook for Polling Officials" provides a Guide to its Aims, Understanding of the Samoa Parliamentary Elections, The Electoral System, How elections are organised, Who are responsible for specific activities and Practical Procedures involved in activities required for and during the period before, during and after polling day. The handbook itemises duties and responsibilities of polling officials in various categories, how to issue votes, counting of votes, and notifying preliminary results to the Chief Electoral Officer, legal obligations of polling officials and scrutineers and provisions in regards to illegal practices and corrupting are included.
The full text of the Elections 2001 Handbook for Polling Officials is annexed to this report for detail information. Copies of the Plebiscite 1990 Handbook for Polling Officials, Election 1991 Handbook for Returning Officers, Deputy Returning Officers and Polls Clerks and the Election 1996 Handbook for Polling Officials maybe obtained from the Parliamentary Library.

Public Education:

- Voters Education

Voter education for the 1991, 1996 and 2001 general elections were conducted through Radio Talks broadcasted over Radio 2AP during the 2 week periods before Polling day.
Full text of the Radio Talks for the 2001 general election is annexed to this report.

- Candidates

A handbook for candidates titled "Candidates Handbooks was first written to assist the candidates standing election for the 1991 general elections, the second edition was written for the 1996 general elections and the $3^{\text {rd }}$ edition for the 2001 general election. The 2001 general election edition is annexed to this report.

- Scrutineers

The candidate's scrutineers were invited to observe the Official training sessions to familiarise them with polling procedures.

The Scrutineer Handbook was first written for the 1991 general elections, the second edition for the 1996 general elections and the third edition for the 2001 general elections. The Handbook details the responsibilities of scrutineers, election offences and how and where to cast votes. A sample of the ballot paper is included for voter education.

Political Party registration

A Handbook for Registration of Political Parties defining the Process of Registration, Notification of registered parties, and Inspection of the Register is annexed to this report.

Transport:

Transport plan for Savaii set out the hire of a ferry to transport the 2 trucks to be loaded with ballot boxes containing ballot papers and election materials already allocated to polling booths. The polling officers to travel on the ferry. The ferry was to leave Apia the day before Polling day to permit sufficient time for distribution of the polling officers, ballot papers and election materials and for preparation and laying out of the polling booths.

One vehicle for each of the 19 Returning Officers were also to be on the chartered ferry.

The trucks transporting ballot boxes for Savaii were to be under the responsibility and supervision of the Chief Returning Officer for Savaii whose responsibility was to distribute the ballot boxes to each presiding officer in Savaii on arrival. The same trucks to collect the ballot boxes after the preliminary counts were completed.

All polling officers for Savaii to travel by bus to the wharf in Apia to catch the chartered ferry and to be collected by Savaii buses on reaching the Salelologa wharf in Savaii. The same buses to collect the polling officers after the preliminary counts taken at the polling booths were completed.

The transport plan for Upolu set out the hire of buses and vans to transport the polling officers and their ballot boxes and supplies to their appointed polling booths. The polling officers appointed to polling booths 20 miles outside of Apia were to be transported with supplies to their appointed polling booths the day before Polling day. The same buses were to collect the same polling officers, ballot boxes and election materials after the preliminary counts were completed.

Polling officers appointed to polling booths within Apia were transported to the polling booths with ballot boxes and election materials on the morning of polling day and collected after the completion of the preliminary counts taken at the polling booths.

Return of Ballot Boxes and Accounts to the Chief Electoral Officer:

The Presiding Officer of each polling station was required to return the ballot papers locked in two ballot boxes assigned to each polling booth together with accounts of ballot papers to the Chief Electoral Officer in Mulinuu where these were to be kept under lock and police security until the Official Count is completed.

CHAPTER V

THE BALLOT PAPERS

The Electoral Act (No.1) 1995 provides for changes to the Forms of ballot papers as shown below:

1. Forms of Ballot Papers:

- Ordinary ballot papers:

The political parties were inserted in the ballot papers for the first time in the 1996 General Elections. The new form of ballot paper prescribed the following:
(i) the names of candidates to be arranged alphabetically in order of matai titles for constituencies candidates and surnames for Individual Voters candidates.
(ii) given names to follow the matai titles or surnames.
(iii) the name of political party if any to show immediately below the candidates name in smaller characters and shall not be in bold type.
(iv) independent candidates to have the word "independent" below the names.
(v) no matter identification such as title, honour or degree to show on the ballot paper.
(vi) a square to be shown to the right of each candidates name.
(vii) the ballot papers to have counterfoils and consecutive numbers.
(viii) special ballot papers

2. Printing of Ballot Papers:

The ballot papers as for all elections were printed by the Government Printer who delivered all printed ballot papers to the Chief Electoral Officer in person.

Distribution of ballot papers:

* Elections not contested

The ballot papers were printed in books, each book containing 50 ballot papers.
As done with the calculation for numbers to be printed, the distribution to various polling booths were calculated to be $21 / 2$ times the number of ballot papers used in the same polling booth in the immediate previous election.

Preventing irregularity as to ballot papers:

The prevention of irregularities and improper procuring of ballot papers were ensured through adherence to the requirements where:
(i) The Chief Electoral Officer supplies the Printer with a receipt specifying the number of ballot papers received and the Printer to destroy any remaining ballot papers in his possession.
(ii) Every Presiding Officer to give the Chief Electoral Officer a receipt specifying the total number of ballot papers received from the Chief Electoral Officer.
(iii) Every Presiding officer to be responsible for the ballot papers handed over to him until he returns them to the Chief Electoral Officer after polls.
(iv) The Chief Electoral Officer to be responsible for all ballot papers received from the Printer until such are sent to the Registrar of the Supreme Court after the completion of the Official Count.

Methods of Voting:

As the electoral system being used in Samoa is the First Past the Post only one candidate is to be marked in the case of single member constituencies and 2 candidates to be marked for 2 members constituencies. The 1995 (No.1) Electoral Amendment provides for use of a $\sqrt{ }$ to be placed to the right of the name of the candidate of choice.

Ballot papers that would contain no $\sqrt{ }$ or contain more than required are to be ruled informal.

Special Voting:

Special voting is used by those electors/voters who cast votes in polling booths outside of their constituencies or in special polling booths allocated in Apia and those electors/voters who are sick in hospital.

The special ballot papers are printed without the names of constituencies and without names of candidates - these are to be filled in by the Special Votes Presiding Officer who issues the ballot paper. The ballot is marked the same way as is done for an ordinary vote.

CHAPTER VI

ELECTION MATERIALS

The stock taking and ordering of various election materials for replenishment commenced two months before dissolution of the XII Legislative Assembly on $23^{\text {rd }}$ January 2001.

Assessment of election materials and ordering was based on the number of polling booths to be used, which in turn was calculated as shown under "Polling Booths".

The following orders were supplied:

Duty Badges

For certification of polling officials appointed for duty at polling booths on polling day, duty badges were issued to Returning Officers, Presiding Officers and Poll Clerks

Posters

Special Posters were supplied to each Polling booth -
(i) Posters showing method of voting
(ii) Posters showing the Polling Booths

Other Materials

Different types of forms and different types of envelops of various sizes were printed and supplied as calculated in accordance with the expected voting strength.

Ballot Boxes

The white wooden ballot boxes with crevice on the lids for depositing votes have been used since the first Parliamentary elections in 1957. It has been proven beyond doubt that these wooden ballot boxes provide optimum security for the ballot papers.

The number of ballot boxes issued to each polling booth was calculated on the expected voting strength. Each ballot box has 2 keys, one issued to the Presiding Officer of the polling booth, the second was retained by the Chief Electoral Officer. The Special booths set up in Apia were each given large ballot boxes.

Telephone Network

As was done for the 1991 and 1996 elections, arrangements were made with the Health Department, the Commissioner of Police and private Hotels in Savaii for the use of telephones and fax machines for contact with Presiding Officers in Savaii and for transmission of Preliminary Results to the Chief Electoral Officer.

CHAPTER VII

THE POLL

Dates of Poll

In accordance with the Warrant issued by Le Ao o le Malo the Writs for the 2001 General Elections set the following dates:

- Nomination day - $16^{\text {th }}$ day of February 2001
- Polling Day - $\quad 2^{\text {nd }}$ day of March 2001
- Return of writs - $18^{\text {th }}$ day of March 2001

Polling Hours

The hours of Polling as prescribed by the Electoral Act 1963 commences at 9.00 o'clock in the morning and closes at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Weather

For the 2001 General Elections, the weather in Upolu was fine in the morning, but there was heavy rains in the afternoon. In Savaii the weather in the eastern side was fine but heavy rains and strong winds were reported in the western side in the early morning. This fortunately did not cause any problems with voter turnout in the western side as the rain and winds eased later in the morning.

There was however heavy rains and strong winds both in Savaii and Upolu in the afternoon which caused problems with the return trips of Polling Officers and transport of ballot papers and polling materials back to Office of the Chief Electoral Officer. In spite of the bad weather conditions, all ballot papers and polling materials were returned and accounted for within the prescribed time.

Admission to Polling Booths

As was in 1991 and 1996 general elections, polling was peaceful and orderly throughout the country. The electors and voters formed queues outside the booths and were admitted under the control of the cue masters. There were no complaints in regards to waiting time. The only complaints received were in regards to the Faasaleleaga No. 2 Roll and Vaisigano No. 2 Roll. The Faasaleleaga No. 2 Roll claims of fraudulent registrations was admitted as an electoral petition and was upheld in Court.

The percentage of voter turnout recorded for the 2001 general elections was lower than that of the 1996 general elections which in turn was much lower than that recorded for the 1991 general elections. See Tables XII, XIII and XIV.

Polling Procedure

The Polling Procedures set out in the Manual for Polling Officers were adhered to. The cue masters controlled the cues and provided for the needs of the old, the sick and the handicapped. Requirement for entrance was the valid certificate of identity - Electors and Voters without certificates of identity were not permitted entrance to the polling booths. Electors and Voters with valid certificates of identity whose names were missing from the rolls were issued special ballot papers.

Electors and Voters casting votes outside of their Constituencies were also issued special ballot papers. Once issued a ballot paper, the certificate of identity was cut at the identified corner being the mark for the 2001 general elections.

* Separate marks were identified for the 1991 and 1996 general elections.

Secrecy of Ballot

The secrecy of the ballot was maintained through strict adherence to procedures as was done in the 1991 and 1996 general elections. There were no claims of breach of secrecy.

Spoilt Ballot Papers

The Spoilt Ballot papers either by Polling Officers or electors or voters were replaced with new ballot papers as required by section 72 of the Electoral Act. The spoilt ballot papers were retained and delivered to the Chief Electoral Officer in separate parcels at the close of Poll.

Tendered Ballot Papers

All tendered ballot papers were not deposited in the ballot boxes, but were set aside for separate custody by the Presiding Officers, and delivered to the Chief Electoral Officer at close of Polls as prescribed by section 74 of the Electoral Act.

Polling after closing hour

Electors and Voters who were standing at cues at 3.00 pm were given special cards permitting them to vote in their turn. Those who were not in the cues at 3.00 pm but arriving later were not permitted to vote. The same procedures were observed in the 1991 and 1996 general elections.

Preliminary Count

The Preliminary Counts were performed by the Presiding Officers at the Polling Booths at the close of polls in the presence of scrutineers in accordance with procedures prescribed by section 75 of the Electoral Act 1963. The scrutineers present at the counts countersigned the Accounts for the ballot papers and the Preliminary Results Counts. The Presiding Officers announced the Results of the Polls at the polling booths and copies of the Results were posted in the individual booths, before these were forwarded together with the ballot papers, accounts and election materials to the Chief Electoral Officer.

Preliminary Results received by the Chief Electoral Officer were posted in the COUNT BOARD in the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer and broadcasted over Radio 2AP on Polling Day.

The Official Count

The Official Count and Scrutiny of Rolls were conducted by the Chief Electoral Officer and the designated Returning Officers under the procedures prescribed in sections 76, 77, 78 and 79 of the Electoral Act.

The Official Count and Scrutiny of Rolls for the 2001 general elections differed from those of the Official Counts of the 1991 and 1996 general elections in that two Returning Officers were designated by the Chief Electoral Officer to assist in the conduct of the Official Count and Scrutiny of Rolls as provided under the 2000 Amendment, whereas the Official Count for the 1991 and 1996 general elections were done wholly by the Chief Electoral Officer with assistants.

The Official Count and Scrutiny of the Rolls of the 2001 general elections commenced the day after Polling Day, being $3^{\text {rd }}$ March 2001 and the Official Results were declared on the $12^{\text {th }}$ March 2001.

Thus the Official Count of the 2001 general elections had taken 10 days, and the Writs were returned 8 days before the last day prescribed for Return of the Writs.

The Official Count and Scrutiny of the Rolls of the 1991 general elections was conducted in 17 days and the Writs were returned 2 days before the last day prescribed for the Return of the Writs.

The Official Count and Scrutiny of the Rolls of the 1996 general elections was conducted in 18 days and the Writs were returned 1 day before the last day prescribed for the Return of the Writs.

Declaration of Result of Polls

The Official results of the polls were declared and reported to Le Ao o le Malo as prescribed in section 80 of the Electoral Act.

All the Members of Parliament declared returned during the Preliminary Counts were confirmed in the Chief Electoral Officer's Official Count.

The Chief Electoral Officer endorsed all the Counts performed by the designated Returning Officers except the Vaisigano No. 2 Count where the Returning Officer who conducted the Count made a wrong declaration. This was corrected by the Chief Electoral Officer through a recheck Count and the Returned Candidate was declared. The Chief Electoral Officer's Declaration of the Vaisigano No. 2 Results was questioned through an electoral petition where a judicial recount confirmed the return of the candidate as declared by the Chief Electoral Officer.

CHAPTER VIII

VOTING STRENGTH

The overall percentage of electors who casted votes in the 1991 general elections was recorded $91.9 \%$ - a high number indeed. However, the average recorded for 1996 and the 2001 general elections although still relatively high showed a downward trend.

The downward trend in voting strength reflects the increasing number of registered electors and voters residing outside of Samoa. The Electoral Act provides for all polling booths to be sited within Samoa and does not provide for postal votes. Since Samoans living in New Zealand and Australia were encouraged to register for the 1991 and 1996 general elections in centres previously described, and since there is continuous emigration, the number of registered electors and voters living overseas who cannot vote for Parliamentary elections in Samoa has continued and will continue to rise.

Names of electors and voters residing outside of Samoa could have been removed through the procedures set out for the Revision of Rolls but this was made difficult by the controversial 1996 amendment. Double registrations and failure to remove the names of the dead also contribute to the drop in voting strength in a minor degree.

NB: Electors for double Members Constituencies and Individual Voters are entitled to 2 votes each using a single ballot paper.

Votes are casted by placing a $\sqrt{ }$ sign next to the 2 names of candidates of choice.

CHAPTER IX

ANALYSIS OF VOTES

1. Special Votes

Special votes were casted by electors and voters who voted in polling booths outside of their Constituencies either because they reside outside their constituencies of registration or because they were required to work on polling day outside of their constituencies of registration eg. polling officers, members of the medical and nursing profession and other essential services and those admitted in hospitals.

Less than $.1 \%$ of special votes were casted by those qualified electors or voters holding valid certificates of identity whose names were missing from the electoral rolls.

2. Tendered Votes (Ballot Papers)

Electors/voters whose rights to vote are challenged are permitted to cast tendered votes. Tendered votes are not included in the preliminary count but are sent to the Chief Electoral Officer for confirmation of right to vote or otherwise during the Official Count.

* Elections not contested

NB: A marked increase was recorded in the number of Tendered Votes in the 2001 general elections. Possible contributing factor being the accumulation of Rolls and Certificates of Identity numbering inaccuracies.

3. Dual Votes

Dual votes are those casted by electors/voters who vote more than once in one election.

Table XVIII

The following table shows the Numbers of Electors that casted dual votes in the 1991, 1996 and 2001 general elections.

* Election not contested

NB: A marked increase in dual votes was encountered in the 2001 general elections. It is possible that the accumulation of Rolls and Certificates of Identity numbering inaccuracies previously referred to may have contributed to the increase. Such errors affected a number of electors and voters with same names eg. father/son, mother/daughter, grandparents/grandchildren and other close relatives who were issued with certificates of identity bearing one number. A number of these errors were discovered in the 1991 and 1996 general elections and were duly corrected.

4. Spoilt Ballot Papers

Ballot papers either spoilt by electors/voters or the presiding officer are set aside and recorded spoilt.

5. Informal Votes

An Informal Vote is defined as a vote, the intention of the elector is not clear or a vote:
(i) that do not bear the official mark if there is reasonable doubt that it was not issued by any Presiding Officer; or
(ii) that do not indicate clearly the candidates of choice; or
(iii) that has anything not authorised by the Electoral Act written or marked by which the elector can be identified; or (iv)that contains marks for more than the number of candidates to be elected.

Table XX

The following Table shows the Numbers of Electors and Voters who casted informal votes in the 1991, 1996 and 2001 general elections.

The Table shows the number of ballot papers that were ruled informal though low show an upward trend. Of the 52,546 electors who voted for 1991 general elections 229 or $0.43 \%$ casted votes that were ruled informal, 58,799 electors who voted for 1996 general elections 292 or $0.49 \%$ were ruled informal, and of the 65,146 electors who voted for 2001 general elections 360 or $0.55 \%$ were ruled informal.

CHAPTER XIII

PROBLEMS

1. Nominations

Processing of Nominations was made difficult in the 2001 general elections because the printed Electoral Rolls were not received from the Registrar of Electors and Voters until after the Nominations were closed.

Certifications of electors pending release of the Printed Electoral Rolls was effected through a form specially printed for the purpose. A copy of the Form is annexed to the report. Such problems with Nominations was not encountered in the 1991 and 1996 general elections when the electoral process was under one administration enabling planning of the whole process for timely implementation of activities.

2. Scrutiny and Official Count

Problems with accessibility to personal details of electors and voters required for assessing qualifications of those who casted special votes and/or assesing validity of votes set aside as tendered votes and those suspected of voting more than once was experienced for the first time in the 2001 general elections. These problems were not encountered in the Official Counts of the 1991 and 1996 general elections when registration of electors and voters and conduct of elections was under one administration with all records easily accessed.

CHAPTER XIV

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. The administration of the Electoral Process to be the responsibility of an independent body to be called the Electoral Commission.

- The Electoral Commission to be directly responsible to the Legislative Assembly and shall communicate with the Legislative Assembly through the Parliamentary Electoral Committee to be chaired by the Speaker. The membership of the Parliamentary Electoral Committee to be of equal party representation irrespective of party membership.
- The Electoral Commission to report to Parliament as soon as practicable after each bi-election and following general elections detailing proceedings and operations.
- The Chief Executive Officer of the Electoral Commission to be called the Electoral Commissioner. The Electoral Commissioner and his deputy to be appointed by the Head of State on resolution of the Legislative Assembly.
- The Electoral Commissioner to devote himself exclusively to duties of his office and not to hold any other office or engage in any other employment.
- The Electoral Commissioner to exercise the powers and perform the duties in the Electoral Act as exercisable and performable by him.
- The Electoral Commissioner and deputy to be paid salaries at the level of Chief Executive Officers and deputy of a ministry.
- Staff of the Electoral Commission to be appointed by the Parliamentary Electoral Committee on recommendation of the Electoral Commissioner.
- The responsibilities of the Electoral Commission to be as follows:
(i) Exercise general directions and supervision over the administrative conduct of elections.
(ii) Registration of electors and compilation and maintenance of up to date electoral rolls.
(iii) Implement public education and information programmes to make the electoral process better known.
(iv) Registration of political parties and maintenance of a registry of agents of registered parties.
(v) Maintain a registry of agents of registered parties for the purpose of donations to registered parties;
(vi) Receive returns of election expenses incurred by or on behalf of each political party.
(vii) Prescribes forms for:
(a) recording information on expenses and claims;
(b) amount of money and commercial value of goods or services loans, advance, contributions, gifts;
(c) use as an official receipt;
(d) purpose of Income Tax.
(viii) Provide election materials.
(ix) Provide and conduct training for election officers.
(x) Advise the Parliamentary Electoral Committee on Electoral legislations and recommend amendments where required.

2. The boundaries of the Territorial Constituencies as prescribed under the Territorial Constituencies Act 1963 to be retained.
3. The Individual Voters Roll be abolished and the 2 seats reallocated to constituencies where the population is expected to rise due to site and subdivision of land, e.g. Vaimauga Sisifo and Faleata Sisifo.
4. The qualifications of Electors prescribed in section 16 of the Electoral Act 1963 be maintained provided that (2)(e) be amended to omit the following from the end of the paragraph:
"or to any community project or work related activity in that village".
The provision now recommended for omission was too loose and therefore open to abuse as proven in the Faasaleleaga No.2, 2001 general elections petition.
5. The proviso in Section 18A(8) of the Electoral Act 1963 as follows be omitted:
"Provided that the name of such person shall not be removed where -
(a) The Registrar is satisfied that such person is alive; and
(b) According to the records of the Registrar such person is the holder of a valid Identification Card."

Omission of this proviso will enable the Registrar to remove all names of those electors who do not respond to the revisions. The majority of those are electors who have emigrated and do not return to Samoa to vote at elections.
6. In addition to the Revision of the Rolls, names of those electors who had not voted for 2 consecutive elections to be removed from the Rolls.
7. Since the Certificates of Identity have been used as trading cards for votes these should be abolished. Instead, photographs of electors are recommended to be part of the Rolls to be used for voting. Rolls with photographs are to be released to the Presiding Officers for Voting only. It should be made an offence for anyone else to possess these Rolls printed with the photographs of electors.
8. Block voting through the use of one vote in two members constituencies be ruled informal. This could be effected by amending Section 79(2)(a) (iv) to read:
"that purports to vote for more or less candidates than the number of candidates to be elected".

This should encourage the electors of 2 members constituencies to use the two votes they are entitled to.
9. Voting age be changed to 18 years to be in line with the voting age in the majority of the Commonwealth countries where the level of education is comparable to that in Samoa. It is also worthy to point out that the voting age for some of the Commonwealth countries is now 16 years.
10. The First Past the Post Voting System which has been in practice in Samoa since the pre-independence era although considered to be perhaps the least democratic of the systems practiced in the democratic world it does have the major advantage of:-

- It is easy for the voters to understand and therefore informal voting is negligible.
- It is easy to count and therefore counting errors is negligible.
- Minor parties and independents sometimes win against major parties.
- It promotes a 2 party system thus ensuring stability in Parliament.
Since stability in Parliament ensures stability in the Country it is recommended that the First Past the Post Voting System be retained.
